Помокомо, Мах 29тн, 1882. We are glad to notice that, under the new rénime, more attention is being paid to the roads of the Colony. Under the administration of Sir John Pops Hennessy the roads were allowed to fall into a state of disrepair quite fereign to Hongkong-which had long been noted for the cleanliness and moothness of its highways—owing to the disinclination of His Excellency to allow the consequence of the introduction of the jinricksha, but the Governor would not recognise the necessity for a liberal expenditure on the roads. In many thoroughfares great and pedestrians. In others which had been laid in concrete large depressions had been and uncomfortable to passengers. Perhaps that the centre of the road-originally, higher than the concrete borders-has been worn to a level below the concrete. It is well known that Mr. PRICE, while paying close rickshas have undoubtedly a good deal to left alone, would have taken steps to counteract the deterioration caused by these vehicles. At the meeting of the Legislative Council on the 7th February last, Governor HENNESSY said:-"As to our roads, streets, and bridges, "I am on the whole perfectly satisfied with the state they are in. I have over and over again intimated to Mr. PRIOR and to Mr. Bownian that any assistance required for that department I am prepared to of our streets and roads, so far from being "unsatisfactory, is highly creditable to the "Survey Department." When the Hon. F. B. Johnson drew attention to the fact that ports of Chuncking, WLADIWOSTOCK, MA- along one portion of the Praya the road was LAGGA, and PENANG have been added to the a foot higher on one side than the other, for vehicles, the Govennon calmly repeated in which the work had been attended and coolly intimated that the hon member was welcome to entertain an opposite opinion if it pleased him. In such case argument would have been useless. The GOYERNOE, in his remarks above quoted, was 1:100 names, and gives reference to over 2,000 clearly speaking on the defensive, probably in reply to some criticisms in the papers on the subject, and, as usual, he endeavoured to shift the responsibility on to the shoulders of others. To show the utter insincerity of His Excellency's remarks and the little reliability to be placed upon his statements, it might be pointed out that if the Governor, as he must have done, had noticed the unsatisfactory condition of the thoroughfares-and it must be remembered that his attention had been pointedly drawn to the matter-it was his duty, not to stop short at merely offering his officers assistance, hut to insist upon their giving so urgent a work their immediate attention. As a matter of fact, in this, as in many other things, Sir John Pope Hennessy said much more than he did. Words not is published in Two Forms-Complete at $5; or | deeds was His Excellency's motto, and the consequence is that the public, whose servant he was, have been made to suffer inconvenience in order that he might be able to promote his own selfish ends and revol in the glory of a big balance, his ideal proof

the Protection of Women and Children,

Governor Sir J. POPE HENNESST, K.C. M.G. Downing Street, 29th Sept., 1880 Sir -I have the honour to noknowledge the receipt of your despatch of the 23rd June, on the subject of brothel slavery. -2 -I have read this despatch with some feeling of disappointment, as it does not appear to me to meet the real difficulties of the subject. 3.-You state that "the existing law against elavery, if properly suforced, is quite sufficient to secure the real freedom of these women; " and rain, "that any cases of the detention of women against their will in such houses would be dealt with by the police in the same way as a case of robbery or assault in such houses." But it need scarcely be pointed out that the detention of a prostitute in a brothel against her will is an exceptional occurrence, for which the legislation introduced by Sir A. Kennedy in 1873 and 1875 effectively provides whenever evidence. 4.—The question how to deal with what termed brothel slavery raises much wider issues. he practices known under that name arise out of certain peoppiary transactions habitually spoken of as purchaseand sale,—transactious well understood, but very difficult to prevent; the result of which is that young women are compelled to live a life of degradation and practical slavery although not under actual personal restrain Something more is therefore needed than police interference confined to cases of forcible daten tion; and the difficulty which has to be met that of providing some means for preventing this abominable traffic in women who are bough elsewhere in order to be made prostitutes in Hongkong, or are virtually purchased in the Colony for that purpose, and for giving protection in the Colony to women themselves. It is generally admitted that the person liberty of these women is not directly interfered with to any very serious extent; and when your despatch of the 23rd January last, dealing with the question of slavery, was received, stating that you had given orders, "that the law, whatever may be the consequence to that brothel system should be strictly enforced so as to secure the freedom of these momen," it was hoped that you had discovered some method of checking this traffic in women, and of dealing with the whole subject of brothel elavery in a practical mauner and you were asked by means of what existing law you were enabled to attain this most desir-

5.—I'am afraid, from the tenour of your reply now under acknowledgment, that I must come to the conclusion that you have not yet fully appreciated the peculiar difficulties surrounding bis question, and that you have not formed any distinct plan for grappling with this long-stand ng evil. The numerous Despatches which have been received from you on this subject have reached no further than to point out the abases connected with the old system of inspection, and especially with the employment of informers. give, you full credit for having lost no time in putting an end to the revolting practices which had arisen from the employment of these informers; but this measure was taken by you as long ago as the end of 1877; and that particular portion of the aubject, having been finally disposed of, need not be, further referred to in your despatches. In dealing with the general quesciently that the establishment of the system of licenses and of inspection was police measure intended to give to the Hongkong Government ome hold upon the brothets, in the hope of improving the condition of the inmates, and of they are at present subjected.

6. -Mr. Labouchers, in his despatch of the 27th August, 1856, says. "the Colonial Government has not, I think, attached sufficient weight to the very grave fact that in a British Colony large numbers of women should be held in pracical slavery for purposes of prostitution, and allowed in some cases to perish miserably of disase in the prosecution of this omployment, and for the gain of those to whom they suppose themselves to belong. A class of persons who by no choice of their own are subjected to such and by Dr. Eitel in his report of the 25th o treatment have an urgent claim on the notive rotection of Government. I am not at present repared to say, and I wish you seriously to consider, in what shape and to what extent it is racticable to give this protection. But I do not see how it can be given at all till the establishments in which such practices are suppled exist are brought under the eye, and in some measure under the control of Government. On these grounds, therefore, independentivof those which have been pressed upon you by Sir J. Stirling and others, I think that these &c., &c. houses of ill-fame and their inmates should be egistered, and subjected to police regulations, n the first instance, of a sanitary character; that a strict medical inspection should be enforced. and that all diseased persons should be removed to hospitals and placed under treatment. The expense of their treatment should be raid either by the public, or, if possible, by the persons from whose control they are taken; against whom, I will here observe, rather than their unfortunate natruments, the penal provisions of the law should be mainly directed. A law framed on these principles, besides the direct effect it would have on the public health, would furnish some immediate protection to those who are the first victims of the present system, and would facilitate such further measures as the Government might deem it expedient to take hereafter." The same views were again expressed in his later despatch of the 11th August, 1857, and were the grounds upon which the large powers contained in section of the Ordinance 12 of 1857 were given to the police as distinct from the Colonial Surgeon. These humane intentions of Mr. Labouchere have been frustrated by various causes, among which must be included that the police have from the first been allowed to look upon this bis oil being stored in accordance with the berate insult the Consula were up in arms at to the custody of the Sau-chang Magistrate to branch of their work as beneath their dignity, terms of his licence; it was standing loose in tins once, and the representations they made to their whom they made a confession that there were while the sanitary regulation of the brothels apalmost entirely disregarded. As you have yourself recommended this step, it was reasonable to expect that, with the advantages which you possess of local observation and experience, you would be prepared, if not to submit a detailed plan for the future protection of these unfortunate women, at all events to offer valuable auggestions for the formation of such a plan. Notwithstanding the attention which you have very properly bestowed on the subject, I cannot say that I have my opinion the existing law against alavery, if

This shelved the new Treaty, and it has peacefully slumbered there ever since. This Treaty contains, I am informed, a clause disposing of the matter of the retail liquor trade.

On the 6th of the present month an effort was made on the part of the Siamese Government to break the slumbers of this unfortunate Treaty, and galvanize it into life. During this interreguam, i.e., while the new treaty was shelved and the old one inoperative, the Biamese had adopted a species of guerilla tactics characteristic of the subtlety and duplicity of the Oriental. As Bret Harte sings .-

For ways that are dark And tricks that are vain, The heathen Sinmes is peculiar. They could not prevent liquor coming into the country in fereign bottoms, nor could they preventits sale while in the hands of the foreign importers. But wee unto the native, Chinese or Siamese, who ventured to buy a jar of it, or in whose possession one was found. Loaded with chains, dragged to prison, his property confiscated and his family turned out to starve, there was little inducement for any native to embark in so hasardous an undertaking. Mistakes too were made by the Siamese officials in carrying out the law. Chinese from Java. Macao, and Saigon, had their stocks of liquor seized and confiscated, and when complaint was made by their Consuls regret was expressed at the error. apologies were offered, but all demands for compensation evaded or discovereded. Finding no purchasers, the samshu accumulated in the godowns until the complaints from the unfortunate holders became not only load but actually olemorous. It was at this point of the question that the fore roing circular was issued

But in the time which has elapsed since the new treaty was projected changes to a considerable extent have taken place, in the views and feelings of those who more cheerfully have assented before to the change in the Treaty asked for. General Halderman, on the part of the United States, had broken up and destroyed the system inaugurated by Mr. Partridge; nothing more can reasonably be asked of him. Mr. Hamel, the representative of Holland, a very liberal though a very just man, while moderating the exactions and toning down the errors of his predecessors. insists on the Slamess carrying out the clauses of the old treaty, and making reparation for the wrongful seizures of the property of his nationals, before any new measures can He be taken in consideration. Representations you have been made to Mr. Palgrave that the trade of British ships will be injured if the cheap liquor of China is excluded from Siam. Poor Elancheton is dead, and his successor, a very worthy man, doubtless, has but just arrived and knows nothing personally of the matter, and is liable to be subjected to wrong nfluences. The United States baving already adopted the most stringent measures possible can do no more. Mr. Prostes, the Portuguese Consul, is away, and his locum tenens, a young lad from Hongkong, is nowerless to act. The German Consulate is also widowed, Baron Bassewitz being in Germany at present. The merchant Consuls are torn by conflicting interests some of them being agents for steamers and others having large transactions with the Siamese officials. The time would scarcely seem to be propitious for the "friendly move" upon the part of Siam.

A circular from the British Consulate, inviting all representatives of Governments in Treaty relations with Siam to meet for consultation at 5 c'clock on the 10th inst., was fully responded to, and every power, except the United States. was represented at the meeting. The policy of and so heartily approved by the Home Government, it was useless for her representative to attend, nothing that could be said could alter his views of action, and he had, I presume, ac. desire to make proselytes. The meeting was anything but unanimous. The deliberations were conducted in the French language, Mr. Harmand, the French Consul, speaking no English. PAO-TING FU.

There is considerable activity in this province. deepening and straightening the rivers. In this Eastern part of Shen-chou a new canal or river is being out for 10 miles or so to send the waters of the P'u-t'an river back into their old channel at Haiao-fan. This will, it is hoped, relieve thousands of acres rendered useless by floods in Hochien Fu and Pachou. That is being done by hired workmen. North of Pao-ting Fu about 10 miles is the Ta'ao river. This is to be opened up or worked over, and the soldiers, cavalry and infantry, are ordered from here to do the work. Every man brings his own shorel and they start off to-morrow morning.

Four or five new dredges were ordered by the Vicercy last summer, and probably they are on the rivers ere this. The wheat is coming languidly on. There a scarcity of moisture all through the province. No rain since last fall, and none sufficient to wet the soil .- N. C. Daily News Correspondent.

Dr. Martin was received yesterday by the entire body of the students and proctors of the College in the large Examination Hall, when an address in Chinese and in English was read by two of the students, welcoming the President back amongst them after his two years' forlough, and engaging to prosecute their studies with redoubled energy and diligence. Dr. Martin replied in Chinese. The Professors present were Measrs, Dudgeon, Vapereau, Oliver, Russell, Pander, and Li Shan-lan. After the ceremony a conversation took place between the President and each of the Professors as to their classes and the progress of the pupils in the various studies, and plans for future work were sketched out. On Thursday evening a grand concert of pianemusic was given to the entire Peking community in the German Legation by Mdlls. Olga Duboin.

The German Minister kindly placed his handsome suite of rooms at her disposal. The musical festival began at 9 o'clock and terminated at 11.30. I subjoin the programme. They have been busy catching thieves lately in Honor, and apparently busy liberating them, with this difference, however, that the former have been the officials, the latter the thieves' compapions, who went to the yamen in a body and resound them. After some days several of the gang were re-apprehended. It is in such cases that the officials demand summary questions on

As shawing the purity of Chinese administration or at all events the carrying out of a good law, the Governor of Honan is obliged to ask that his nephew, a tung pan, be removed to some other province. This rule holds good in the ease of near relatives, such as sons, grandsons, nephows and sous-in-law. There has been a rising of the Yao people -aborigines-in Hunan, which has been suppressed; some lives taken and harmony restored. Claimants are not adknown In China any more than in the west. The Gazette records a case when a false son had come forward for the honours of his supposed father. This I understand is not an uncommon practice among the third and fourth class officials.

The Household expenses here are very heavy. The Western Empress's habits are said to be expensive. The Board of Revenue ought to supply the palace with fouds, but as it would be very derogatory to the palace to go to the Board every time they wanted to buy a fan, there is the Honsehold Yamen that takes this in charge. When the Board is in a destitute condition it simply asks the Emperor to write himself for the needed supplies to the various places that are according to regulations bound to supply the Imperial Household. On the present occasion Tis. 100,000 are needed and the Fukien Costoms is requested to forward the amount. They find themselves unable to remit so large a sam, but send Tls. 50,000 as an instalment. A District Magistrate in Hunan is a debtor to the Emperor to the extent of Tls. 4,000, and at present he is unable to pay. He is asked to pay one half now and look sharp after paying the remainder.

The Viceroy of Yunnan and Kueichen, by usme Liu Chang-yen, asks for leave on account of illnoss.
